

Information Technology.

GSK. The Difference.

Information Technology at GSK.

We specialize in providing legal advice for IT and internet projects, as well as for IT-related transactions. Thanks to our extensive experience in the constantly changing IT sector, we are highly familiar with the requirements of providers and of our clients. This not only makes us competent partners with considerable legal and business expertise, but also helps us provide efficient services, ensuring that your next IT project is a rapid success. Our objective is to find tailor-made, innovative and legally sound solutions.

We can handle complexity.

Transactions, outsourcing, compliance and the internet:

Complex projects and issues are our speciality. We have substantial know-how and many years of experience representing national and international enterprises.

In accompanying and assisting with transactions, we work regularly hand-in-hand with other Practice Groups from our firm and the IT specialists of our clients. This enables us to deliver individual solutions that work.

IT meets a passion for the job.

Outsourcing, open source, XaaS and cloud computing, as well as IT compliance are more than mere buzzwords to us.

In addition to current legal requirements, we also understand the various models and demands of a modern IT system and structure in enterprises.

Internet projects are our passion. In close cooperation with you, we develop and implement eCommerce and mCommerce concepts, as well as other creative online offers. In the context of internet law, you benefit additionally from our expertise in the IP field, particularly with respect to copyright, trademark and competition law.

In addition to IT providers, we advise and represent banks and other financial service providers. For these clients, we have accompanied large-volume and complex transactions, outsourcing and internet projects over the past few years.
