Programme

The European automotive industry has historically been a key driver of Europe's growth and prosperity. The industry currently employs over 13 million people in Europe and accounts for 40 per cent of the global automotive value share. It is one of a small number of industries where Europe remains the global leader.

The industry is facing unprecedented challenges as it seeks to adapt to new requirements for carbon neutral fuel systems and data-enabled mobility services. Since 2010, investors from outside of the automotive industry have invested over €100bn in mobility startups. These new non-traditional competitors in the market include both United States tech giants and Chinese state-backed enterprises.

It is in this context that the IBA European Regional Forum is holding this inaugural Conference on the European automotive and mobility services industry, looking at the current state of the industry and future trends. In particular, the Conference will look at how the industry is responding to the ambitions of these new market entrants.

The transformation in the industry will require a radical change in its core competencies, moving from a focus on mechanical automotive engineering to software mobility engineering. This will involve reskilling the existing work force based around sophisticated software and data analytics. It also implies moving from a business model built on selling vehicles and aftermarket services, to one offering mobility and other data enabled services. This will involve changes both to the product as well as to the whole production process. It will also involve greater industry collaboration with non-traditional competitors in the market.

We will be looking at the nature of these new, more sustainable mobility services in transporting both people and goods.

One particular challenge is in adapting to the uniqueness of the European market, both in the diversity of its urban spaces and the scale of rural living. How can it build the necessary infrastructure to develop dynamic integrated transport networks across the continent? We will consider the regulatory and infrastructure challenges of building such a system across Europe.

In-house counsel working in the industry are facing a complex array of legal challenges, both in terms of restructuring the existing industry as well as in their attempt to build a more collaborative approach with greater input from non-traditional players. What are the priorities and challenges for these in-house counsel?

Some of the critical legal issues for the industry are based around autonomous, connected, electric and shared (ACES) megatrends. The hot topics session will give us the opportunity to explore a range of legal issues connected to these trends.

The Conference speakers and table moderators have been selected to provide advice about the automotive and mobility industry. They include senior management, consultants, in-house counsel and experienced lawyers.

The aim of the Conference is to provide a general overview of the European automotive and mobility industry and to explore the legal challenges, which arise when developing more sustainable mobility services.

Trends in the automotive industry

This session will provide an overview of the current state of the industry and future prospects from the perspective of traditional manufacturers and suppliers, as well as new entrants into the market. The industry is facing three clear challenges:

- new digital technology;
- data-enabled mobility services; and
- alternative drive systems

These challenges represent a seismic transformation of traditional mobility concepts. This session will in particular look at innovative business models that are currently under development in the mobility services market and the regional hot spots leading these innovations. We will also look at the responses from traditional manufacturers as they seek to satisfy their clients' changing needs and expectations.

Innovation in mobility services

High-density populations in metropolitan areas and the climate crisis require more efficient and eco-friendly means of mobility, based on intelligent integrated transport networks of both people and goods. The progressive development of autonomous vehicles, affordable transport solutions (such as ride and car sharing), micro mobility (such as bicycles and e-scooters), and Robo-Taxi and air taxis offer a wide range of opportunities across the whole value chain. They also come with their own set of challenges, including:

- road safety;
- data protection;
- cybersecurity;
- the increasing demand for electric power; and
- suitable infrastructure for electric cars

The aim of the session is to look at the potential of these new mobility services and integrated transport networks with specific reference to:

- The day to day concerns and expectations surrounding new innovations in mobility services
- The increasing importance of collaboration with non-traditional players in the automobile industry with skills in software and data analytics
- The scope of the new app-based mobility services
- The insights coming from developments in China
- The growing relevance of data and data analytics in providing mobility services

- Who should be bearing the costs of these new networks?
- What are the difficult political implications of prioritising different modes of transport?
- How should existing players in the industry respond to the need to work within a new highly regulated environment?

The priorities for in-house counsel in a world of fast-moving change and innovation

In-house counsel are having to respond to the disruptive trends transforming the automotive industry. These include new models of collaboration, the introduction of new regulatory infrastructure and the adoption of new digital technology. At the same time, they have to deal with the restructuring of the existing automotive business. These challenges require creative solutions combining different areas of law and strong project management skills in cross-border projects, as well as looking at the possibilities of turning disruption into opportunities. This session will look at:

- Managing cross-border R&D and cooperation projects
- Legal challenges of autonomous driving and other mobility trends, including the impact of new regulatory infrastructure
- Supporting innovation particularly in the area of digital technology
- Maintaining a high compliance culture while encouraging creative and flexible business driven solutions

If any deductions or withholdings are required by law to be made from any fees payable to us by you under the terms contained in this 'Information' section you shall pay such sum as will, after the deduction or withholding has been made, leave us with the same amount as we would have been entitled to receive in the absence of any such requirement to make a deduction or withholding.

Conference sell-outs

The IBA places its conferences in venues of a suitable size for each event; however, there are times when our conferences may sell out. Should this happen, prospective delegates will be informed and a waiting list will operate. The waiting list will function on a 'first come, first served' basis, subject to receiving registered delegate cancellations. The waiting list for a conference will close once it has reached ten per cent of the conference venue capacity, as it is very unlikely a place will become available. The IBA will not be liable for any travel or accommodation expenses incurred by an individual who travels to a conference without a confirmed place at the event.

Cancellation of registration or social functions

If cancellation is received in writing at the IBA office by 21 February fees will be refunded less a 25 per cent administration charge. Refunds will be made minus any monies owed to the IBA.

We regret that no refunds can be made after this date. Registrations or social function bookings received after 21 February will not be eligible for any refund of fees. Please note that NO exception will be made to this policy. Should you have difficulties in obtaining your visa and are not able to attend the Conference this cancellation policy will still apply.

Upon submission of your completed Conference registration form to the IBA you are considered 'registered' pending payment. Please note that the cancellation terms and conditions as indicated will apply as soon as your registration is received.

Provided you have cancelled your registration to attend an IBA conference in accordance with the terms of the 'cancellation of registration' clause included in the 'Information' section of the relevant conference programme, you must then confirm to us in writing at the IBA office as soon as possible, but in no event later than one year (12 calendar months) from the date of any such conference, all necessary details to enable any reimbursement owed to you to be paid. We regret that no refunds will be made after the date that is one year (12 calendar months) after the date of the relevant conference.

Travel arrangements and visas

Participants are responsible for making their own travel arrangements. It is recommended that you check your visa requirements with your local embassy or consulate. We are unable to dispatch visa invitation letters to support your visa application prior to receipt of your registration form and full payment of registration fees.

Please apply for your visa in good time.

Unauthorised accommodation agents

It has been brought to our attention that there are multiple companies contacting past attendees, claiming to represent the IBA, offering 'assistance' with registration and hotel bookings. They are operating by cold-calling and spamming companies whose names have appeared on previous List of Participants, Programmes and Sponsorship recognition. The only Accommodation Agent the IBA works with is Judy Lane ICS. Judy Lane ICS do not contact delegates on behalf of the IBA without delegates making initial contact. Please ignore any communication that does not come directly from the IBA or Judy Lane ICS.

On this occasion the IBA has not reserved an accommodation block for the conference attendees; however, the following hotels are located close to Upside East:

International Bar Association

the global voice of the legal profession

The International Bar Association (IBA), established in 1947, is the world's leading organisation of international legal practitioners, bar associations, law firms and law societies.

The IBA influences the development of international law reform and shapes the future of the legal profession throughout the world. It has a membership of more than 80,000 individual lawyers and more than 190 bar associations and law societies spanning over 170 countries.

Inspired by the vision of the United Nations, the IBA was founded in the same spirit, just before the Universal Declaration of Human Rights was proclaimed in 1948.

The IBA covers all practice areas and professional interests, providing members with access to leading experts and up-to-date information, enabling them to better represent their clients' interests.

Through its various committees, fora and task forces, the IBA facilitates the exchange of information and views among its members as to laws, practices and professional responsibilities relating to the practice of law around the globe.

IBA European Regional Forum overview

The IBA European Regional Forum was established in 1989 to provide a focus on the work undertaken by the IBA in developing the practice under changing legal systems of lawyers in Eastern and Central Europe. The Forum was also intended to act as a channel for IBA communication with the bar associations of these local lawyers.

Since 2004 the Forum has been developing and strengthening the existence of the IBA within the whole of Europe by promoting the goals of the IBA to members, non-members and others, disseminating professional know-how, and assisting the committees and other constituencies of the IBA to increase their presence in the different neighbouring regions of Europe, including parts of North Africa and the Middle East.

The goals of the Forum include addressing current and long-term needs of professional organisations and individual members within the geographical reach of the Forum, as well as increasing membership and participation in the IBA and integrating them within the organisation. The Forum will also facilitate cross-border activity between lawyers and bars in different European countries. The Forum has a particular focus on cross-disciplinary activities.

The Forum seeks to facilitate relevant networking and information/experience sharing opportunities. It encompasses the social and collegial interests of both members and potential members, with other regional fora, the IBA Corporate Counsel Forum, the IBA Young Lawyers' Committee and all LPD committees in general. At present the Forum has 7,700 members and its numbers continue to increase as it becomes one of the most integrated and dynamic fora of the IBA.
